

Inference 2: Putting Clues Together

Name: _____

Class: _____

Date: _____

Write all answers in your book. Number each one. Today's rule: one clue is a guess, two clues is an inference.

Part A: Do Now (5 min, on your own)

One question from each lesson this week.

A1 The referee's whistle went and half the crowd was already walking towards the exits.

What can you infer? Name the clue.

A2 Point: the flat is neglected. Evidence: "paint peeling from every window frame".

Write the Explain only: This suggests ... because ...

A3 The last bus sighed to a halt and opened its doors.

Name the device and explain its effect.

A4 The team lost the final, missed the play-offs and then lost their sponsor. None of it seemed to bother him.

What does "it" refer to?

Part B: Cold Case (teams of 3)

A kitchen, 7 a.m. These are the only facts you have. Work out what happened. Every conclusion must rest on at least TWO clues.

- | | |
|---|--|
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • two mugs on the table, one full and stone cold • a chair lying on its side • the back door unlocked and slightly open | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • a phone on the floor, screen cracked, 14 missed calls • a suitcase by the stairs, half packed • the car keys missing from their hook |
|---|--|

Write your theory, then the clues that prove it. Wait for the new evidence before you decide you are right.

Part C: Drill (each answer needs two clues)

C1 The shelves at the front of the shop were bare. A hand-written sign taped to the till read CASH ONLY, and the owner had stopped answering the phone.

What can you infer about the shop? Use two clues.

C2 The council's new cycle lane is used by 40% fewer riders than predicted. Local shops report that deliveries now take twice as long, and two of the three bike-hire stands have already been removed.

What can you infer about the scheme? Use two clues.

C3 Marc had learned to check the post before his mother did. He knew the school's envelopes by their weight, and this one was heavy.

What can you infer about Marc? Use two clues.

C4 Nobody at the table mentioned the empty seat. Aunt Fen passed the potatoes twice to the same person. When the youngest asked why there were only five plates, the question disappeared into the clatter of cutlery, and someone asked, too brightly, about the weather.

(a) What is this family avoiding? (b) Which two details tell you the most, and why those two?

Part D: Exit Ticket (on your own, 2 marks)

D The training pitch was empty at four o'clock. The kit bags were still stacked by the gate, the coach's car had not moved all week, and someone had taped a single sheet of paper to the clubhouse door.

What has happened at this club? Support your answer with two clues.
