LESSON

Feelings with Inside Out

Week 1: Feelings and settling in · Naming emotions, and separating the noun from the adjective

Can-do	I can name the five emotions, describe how a character feels, and say how I feel using be .
Grammar	be + adjective, full paradigm: I am, you are, he/she is, we are, they are. Negative and yes/no question forms.
Phonology	Stress on two-syllable adjectives: happy , angry , excited , nervous .
Lexis	Nouns: joy, sadness, fear, disgust, anger. Adjectives: happy, cheerful, joyful, excited, sad, gloomy, unhappy, scared, nervous, anxious, disgusted, angry, mad, furious.
Feeds the final task	Booklet section 5, emotions. The noun and adjective distinction fixed here prevents the most common written error in last year's booklets.

Materials and preparation

Item	Source file in the Unit 1 bank	Prepare
Reading sheet	1. Emotions / 1 Inside Out introduction READING.docx	Print 11. Use section A (tick the correct answers) and the short-answer questions 3 to 5.
Video worksheet	1. Emotions / 2a Inside Out first day at school VIDEO.docx	Print 11. Use tasks 1 and 2 only. Keep the correction page for yourself.
Video clip	1. Emotions / The argument INSIDE OUT Trailer 2 .mp4	Cue it before the lesson. Check the sound in the room.
Homework sheet	1. Emotions / 2b Inside out adjectives nouns HOMEWORK.docx	Print 11. Set only the table and the picture captions tonight. Section 3 is Lesson 3.
Character images	The five emotion characters, from the video worksheet	Five A4 images for the board, or project them.

Lesson flow, 55 minutes

Time	Stage	What happens	Teacher notes
0 to 5	Retrieval	Classroom English check: call a French phrase, students give the English. Then a 60-second name-spelling round to keep the alphabet warm.	Fast and light. The aim is that the phrases become automatic, not that they are tested.
5 to 11	Lead-in	Project the five characters. In pairs: Do you know this film? Explain to a classmate what it is about. Take two or three contributions in English, accepting anything comprehensible.	Accept single words and gestures here. Do not correct. You are buying engagement, not accuracy.
11 to 22	Reading comprehension	Distribute the reading sheet. Students read the Riley paragraph silently, then tick the six multiple-choice answers. Pair check, then whole-class correction with a reason given for each answer.	Answers: an 11-year-old girl; San Francisco; five; in her head; to help Riley every day; joy and sadness. Insist on Because the text says ... for at least two items.
22 to 33	Video and vocabulary harvest	Play the clip once for enjoyment, then again with the worksheet. Task 1: match the five NOUNS to the pictures. Task 2: write at least two ADJECTIVES for each noun.	Build the answers on the board as a two-column grid as they feed them back. Joy: happy, cheerful, joyful, excited. Sadness: sad, gloomy, unhappy. Fear: scared, nervous, anxious, terrified. Disgust: disgusted. Anger: angry, mad, furious.
33 to 42	Language focus, the core of the lesson	Make the noun and adjective split explicit. Write the wrong sentence on the board, I am happiness , and have the class repair it. Then drill the full be paradigm with substitution: I am happy, she is happy, they are happy, I am not happy, Are you happy?	This is the fifteen minutes that matters. French uses avoir for several of these states, so the interference is structural, not careless. Expect to repair it repeatedly for six weeks.
42 to 50	Mime and guess	One student draws an adjective card and mimes it. The class guesses in full questions: Are you angry? You are scared! The mime answers Yes, I am or No, I am not .	Forces the question form and the short answer. With 11 students everyone gets a turn in eight minutes.
50 to 55	Notebook	Copy the noun and adjective grid from the board. Then write three sentences: one about yourself, one about a classmate, one about a character.	Circulate and initial three notebooks. Being seen to check is what makes the copying happen properly.

On the board, and copied into the notebook

NOUN joy / sadness / fear / disgust / anger ADJECTIVE happy / sad / scared / disgusted / angry

NOT I am happiness. YES: I am happy. NOT I have fear. YES: I am scared.

I am excited. She is nervous. They are angry. I am not sad. Are you happy? Yes, I am. / No, I am not.

Differentiation, 11 students in three working tiers

Tier	What they get	What success looks like today
Tier 1, support A0 to A1	Reading: the six multiple-choice items only, with a highlighted text where the answers sit. Video task 1 (matching) plus one adjective per noun, chosen from a word bank on the desk.	Five nouns matched correctly and three I am ... sentences written without help.
Tier 2, core A1 to A2	Full reading sheet including short-answer questions 3 to 5. Video tasks 1 and 2 in full, two adjectives per noun.	Ten adjectives recorded, and the three notebook sentences correct on be .
Tier 3, extend A2 to B1	As core, plus reading question 5 (What problems does Riley face?) answered in two full sentences, and the extension adjectives from the resource list: ecstatic, envious, overwhelmed, bitter, cross.	A written answer of two or more clauses, and at least two extension adjectives used accurately.

Homework and assessment

Homework	Sheet 2b, the noun and adjective table plus the picture captions beginning She is Do not set section 3 of that sheet; it is the core writing of Lesson 3.
Assessment	Formative. Collect the video worksheet at the end and scan it for the noun and adjective confusion specifically. Whoever still writes I am happiness needs the Tier 1 word bank in Lesson 3.

Watch out for

The structural error is avoir against be. French j'ai peur becomes I have fear. Put the wrong version on the board and let them repair it. Correcting an error they can see beats a rule they must remember.

The video is a hook, not the lesson. Two viewings, no more. The adjectives harvested on the board are the product; the clip is only the delivery mechanism.

Do not release the extension adjectives to everyone. Ecstatic and envious are for Tier 3. A near-beginner who is handed fourteen adjectives learns none of them.
